50 Years

The following pages are devoted to the development and organization of Marple-Newtown Senior High School. It is hard to believe that the modern school on Media Line Road went through the varied stages pictured below. A school system, like any other functioning body, changes with the times. Her facilities have to expand as the classes grow larger. With each significant growth of students, our school system has found it necessary to provide additional space and new activities to meet the needs and the varied interests of the developing student body. Starting as a rural high school whose enrollment was only thirty-one pupils, Marple-Newtown has progressed into the school we are so very proud of today.

In 1914 Marple and Newtown townships joined to construct a four year agricultural and vocational school. The eight-room schoolhouse met the needs of the two rural communities for the next twelve years. From 1926 on, regular additions were made to the building to keep pace with enrollment.

This picture shows the high school as it existed in 1949. Although the facilities were adequate, an addition to the building was soon to be constructed as part of the continuing program of expansion.

A workman inspects the foundation of the proposed addition to the high school. In the background stands the old structure which was decimated by fire only a few months after the completion of the addition.

Of Progress

This was the devasting scene on April 9, 1956, as the oldest part of the high school went up in flames. The fire caused an estimated damage of $500,000 and the loss of fourteen classrooms. In 1957 this building became the Junior High, while grades 10 and above were educated in other local buildings until the construction of the new senior high school.

(Courtesy of Evening Bulletin)

The Senior High, as the Class of 1964 knows it, was dedicated in 1958. From 1958 to 1961 the student body was comprised of grades 10, 11, and 12. In 1961 the tenth grade was moved to Paxon Hollow High School to eleminate crowded conditions.

The construction of the new addition to the Senior High School begins in the summer of 1964. Costing three million dolars, the addition will accomodate 1700 pupils in grades ten, eleven, and twelve and will double the area of the existing building. The athletic fields will be moved to the area behind the Dunwoody Home.

For half a century, Marple-Newtown has been a stepping stone to the future. Time and progress have altered her face and changed her form; she has forged ahead in size, enrollment, and courses. Throughout the years, Marple-Newtown has evolved to meet the needs of each tomorrow; and so she will continue, bridging the present to the future. Just as students have for fifty years before us, we too shall look back with pride to Marple-Newtown. We, the Class of 1964, dedicate this yearbook to all those who have made the progress of our school a continuing reality.

CONTENTS

Many events and persons contribute to the traditions of a school. However, these traditions can only indure as long as an energetic and enlightened administrative staff guides the educational processes. The intellect must be nurtured and given the opportunity to find expression. This can only come about through the efforts of a compassionate and dedicated staff.
All too often one tends to dwell upon the outward signs of our progress and fails to give sufficient import to the subtler means that brought about that letter, that plaque or that diploma. The inspiration from a teacher, the thoughtfulness of a principal, and the sympathy of a classmate are all to often pushed into the back recesses of memory. Nevertheless, the administration and the faculty continue to be tactiturn cheerleaders for the student body.

Faculty And Administration

Planning Our

DR.KERMIT M. STOVER

Dr. Kermit M. Stover has been Superintendent of Marple-Newtown Joint Schools for the past five years. Prior to obtaining this position, Dr. Stover was Chief School Administrator and school principal.

Dr. Stover is the chief executive in the school system. He is responsible for the instructional program of the district and observation of school board policies. Along with other members of the school system, he makes recommendations on courses of study, selections of books, and specifications of school apparatus.

The Marple-Newtown Joint School Board is the body which is responsible for Marple-Newtown's progress through the years. The original board consisted of ten members which has expanded today to fourteen members, seven from each district.

The policy development for the operation of the school district is the main duty of the school board. The board is responsible for the growth of Marple-Newtown's school facilities. In addition to providing for an educational program for all schools, the school board has provided for the expansion in population by an increase in faculty.

Counterclockwise: Mr. L. Sauder, Mr. R. Smith (Treas.), Mr. W. Zuspan, Mr. R. Peterson, Mr. R. Gauntlet, Mrs. F. Scherr (V. Pres.), Mr. J. Cerritelli, Mr. W. Rudloff, Mr. W. Culbertson, Mr. R. Larson, Dr. K. Stover (Supt. of Schools), Mr. C. Russell (Sec.), Mr. R. Raske (Pres.), Mr. W. Charlton, Mr. J. Muroff. Missing: Mr. R. Molden, Mr. W. Davis, Mr. E. Hoffner.

Pathways

Since 1950 Dr. William F. Nye has been a member of Marple-Newtown Joint Schools. He first taught the sciences and in 1957 he became principal of the Junior High School which resulted two years later in his becoming principal of the Senior High School. Dr. Nye is responsible for the organization of the Senior High program. He works with the department heads to establish Marple-Newtown's standards and organize the programming from year to year.

DR. WILLIAM F. NYE

DRS. STOVER, GRUENDER, AND NYE welcome us back to begin a new school year.

Dr. Jay L. Gruener has been the assistant principal of the Senior High School for four years. A few of his duties are attendance, student control, and student activities. He assists with the Student Council and the planning and presentation of assembly programs and productions. Dr. Gruener is always available to help in the solution of different student problems, both personal and academic. In a position that requires patience and fairness, Dr. Gruener provides friendly and understanding guidance.

When Problems

Running an efficient office are, from L. to R.: Miss Scherr, Mrs. Caro, Mrs. Thomas (Guid. Sec.), Mrs. Singer.

Teachers, students, and parents, all rely on the efforts of the employees of the General Office. The secretaries serve the faculty and the student body through their recording the attendance records, composing the daily bulletin, fulfilling requisitions, and distributing the mail. They take personal interest in students and are responsible for such necessities as working papers, lockers, student transcripts, personal student records, teachers' recommendations, and graduation. There is a guidance secretary on the staff who makes appointments for students with their counselors and attends to guidance business.

The General Office is a modernized center. It contains various types of equipment which makes Marple-Newtown capable of an effective educational program. One of the latest additions to the office is the Thermo-fax which makes copies of important papers and documents.

The General Office staff are always ready to lend a hand to teacher, student, or parent.

Arise . . .

Senior counselors: Mr. Milne and Miss Conley.

Mr. Bruce Dimmick, chairman of the guidance department.

Junior Counselors: Miss Speer and Mr. Owens.

The Guidance Department consists of five counselors, two for seniors and two for juniors. They guide students in vocational and educational planning. They consider job and college referrals and help arrange student employment. The counselors hold conferences with students and parents to help plan students' future. They are responsible for the interpretation of standardized tests and examinations.

The student body is kept aware of the latest educational developments and opportunities through the efforts of the guidance department.

The guidance counselors encourage each student to work up to his capacity and help him obtain his goals. They maintain contact with state employment industry for changes within the labor market. They keep up-to-date catalogues of colleges, vocational schools, and schools of graduate training. Personal character references are drawn and reviewed by the counselors. Guidance counselors collect the past, develop the present, and guide the future of Marple-Newtown's students.

In 1914 hungry Marple-Newtown students went home for lunch or munched a sandwich brought from home. Today Marple-Newtown cafeteria offers daily lunches which include a platter and an a la carte line. The cafeterias in the Marple-Newtown Joint Schools are under the direction of Mr. Roland Grimsley. The Senior High staff, under the management of Mrs. Robert Tross, consists of seven workers. There is a wide assortment of foods including: sandwiches, salads, hot meals, desserts, and beverages. For special school events the staff is always on hand to assist the faculty and student body. Holidays are greeted with special meals cleverly designed to suit the occasion.

Mr. Grimsley and Mrs. Tross maintain an efficient kitchen.

Satisfying hundreds of huge appetites are, from L. to R.: Mrs. E. Turkington, Mrs. E. Rudella, Mrs. M. Caracino, Mrs. J. Thompson, Mrs. D. Larsh, Mrs. H. Orr, Mrs. M. Cini, Mrs. C. Wilson.

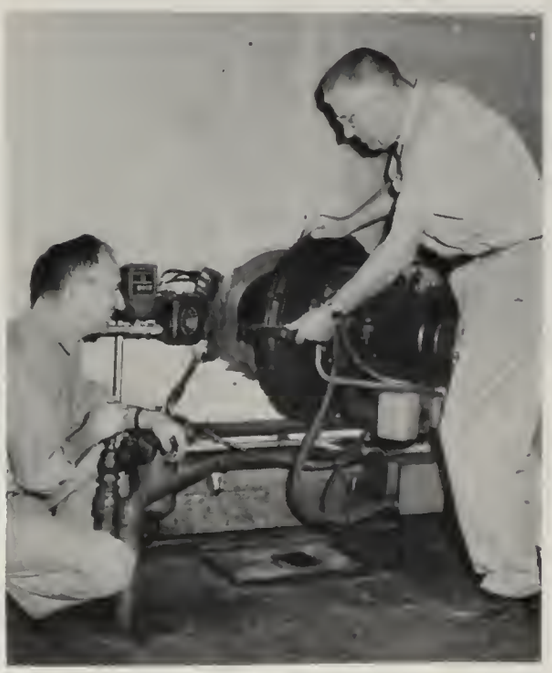

Maintenance

The maintenance of Marple-Newtown since 1914 has been largely the responsibility of our school custodians. From early in the morning until late at night, the custodians are busy at work. Their jobs range from cutting grass to washing blackboards. They maintain cleanliness throughout the school and attend to school repairs. Among their rarely noticed services, is their attendance of the heating plant. One of their most unusual services is the cleaning of our constantly painted Tiger. Overconscious of school cleanliness and its occupants comfort, the custodians strive to do their duties.

L. to R. are: Mr. J. Mercer, Mr. J. Garaghty, Mr. T. Gustafson, Mr. G. Earle Mr. E. Binder, Marple-Newtown's hard-working custodians.

Meeting the mechanical needs of M-N are Mr. Binder and Mr. Earle.

For more than thirty-five years Marple-Newtown's school buses have transported students to and from school. Today, fifteen buses, working in shifts, go about the complex task of delivering students to Marple-Newtown Joint Schools. Altogether 3,400 pupils out of 6,400 pupils are assisted in transportation provided by this bus service.
Under the surveillance of Mr. Arthur Danby, Jr., transportation supervisor, the buses are kept rolling efficiently and economically. Neither rain nor sleet nor snow prevents our bus drivers from their duty.

Keeping our transportation in tune are J. DeHuff and Mr. Danby (foreman).

Safely to and from school they take us: row 1: R. Davis, W. Spalding, G. Milliken, H. Worthington, C. Jenkins, G. Barycki. Row 2: G. Bradley, J. DeHuff, G. Young, W. Standen, J. Lawn, T. Heagney, N. Moorehead.

And Service

In the lower level of the Senior High lies Marple-Newtown Joint School's business staff. Here are located the offices of the Secretary of the Joint School Board, the Administrative Assistant for elementary instruction, the Music Department Head, the Cafeteria Supervisor, the Administrative Assistant for Business, the I.B.M. Supervisor, and the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds. Their purpose is to record, regulate, and attend to all of the school board's business. They hold the official school records, contracts, and bills. The Administrative Office serves the business needs of Marple-Newtown Joint Schools.

Transacting the official business of the school district are, from l. to r.: Mr. Kleinhans, Mr. Willa, Mrs. Frazier, and Mrs. Correll.

Mrs. Timmons, Mr. Brown, Mrs. Williams, Mr. Russell, Mr. Oselinsky, Mr. Simon, Mrs. Cope busily organize school board records.

One often hears "Show me what books you read and I can tell you what type of a person you are." No less can be said about the activities which a school sponsors.

Much has been said about the well-rounded pupil; so much in fact that it now rings as a chiche. But is it a chiche? Although the mind constantly begs for knowledge, it also demands diversion. The many and varied activities that make up the school day and school year attest to a well-rounded program.

Typing

The Future Business Leaders of America is an organization of girls who plan to pursue a career in business. Its members indulge in projects for the Business Department that enable them to gain the experience they will need in the future. During football season, the girls of F.B.L.A. are in charge of concessions. They have earned more money for the Athletic Association this year than any other club that has handled this activity in the history of Marple-Newtown. Throughout the winter the girls attend a state-wide convention and compete in contests in the school of a nearby chapter. At the end of the year, a scrapbook is submitted to Mrs. Maskula, the club's advisor, who keeps it on record for reference in years to come.

"Earn while you learn", is the theme of the Distributive Education Program initiated three years ago at Marple-Newtown. The program started with fifteen students selected by the Guidance Department in co-operation with faculty advisor, Philip Robinson and has expanded to twenty-seven students today.

The D. E. Club is an organization for students who have qualified and participate in the Distributive Education Program. These students have a distinct interest in the business world and are willing to work. The D. E. program is vocational training for students combined with classroom study. Students are employed in a variety of companies.

The Club includes a discussion of group and individual problems. Several businessmen attend their meetings and speak to the students about different community business occupations. These speakers are provided by the Marple Rotary Clubs, who make the program their community project. The Distributive Education Club opens experience and education in the business world to Marple-Newtown students.

The officers discuss plans; Seated: D. Erb (Sec.), N. Manzi (Pres.). Standing: Mr. Robinson, D. Barry (1 V.-pres.), T. Kuhn (Treas.), T. Castagna (2 V.-pres.).

And Selling

The members of the D.E.C.A. are; Seated: D. Barry, T. Castagna, N. Manzi, D. Erb, T. Kuhn. Standing: Mr. Robinson, M. Langnas, R. Peacock, W. Foery, R. Jacoby, J. Leary, R. Price, S. Rudolph, F. Ballaron, J. Battista, J. Knudsen, D. Pomante, H. Feld, E. Hunter, S. Pagankemper.

FHA

Although the Future Homemakers of America isn't considered a service organization, the club does perform many services, both in and out of school. This year, under the able guidance of Miss Fuoco, the club maintains the bulletin board in the lobby, which they purchased last year. Classes are held for any students interested in learning to knit or crochet. The club holds an annual Christmas party for the faculty and their major social event for the school is the Mardi Gras Dance. One of their community projects was offering their help at the muscular distrophy hospital.

F.H.A. President, Carol Quinn, consults with D. Membrino (Treas.), J. Long (Sgt.-arms), S. Fleming (V.-pres.), and L. Brimble (Sec.).

FNA

Marple-Newtown's FNA is chartered by the National League of Nursing Education. Under the supervision of Mrs. Mannino,, who has run the club since its beginning six years ago, the girls gain an insight into the nursing profession. Speakers come to many of the meetings and offer information about many phases of a nurse's life. The FNA boasts of many of its alumni who have gone on to become excellent nurses. The club sponsors bake sales and various fild trips to hospitals throughout the year. On the whole, the FNA provides a broad background for those who are thinking of attaining a career in the medical field.

G. Dorney, President of the F.N.A., explains the correct method of weighing to D. Massimo (V.-pres.), J. Field (Sec.), L. Lake (Sgt. arms), C. Dickinson (Parl.), and L. Richards (Treas.).

FTA

The Future Teachers of America have proved to be an asset to the school for over ten years. This club gives its members a valuable insight into what the teaching profession is really like, and what qualifications a teacher must have. The club meets twice a month and speakers are frequent visitors. The club's main purpose is to provide students with help in choosing a career in education. The club was originally named the John Worrall F.T.A. but the name was later changed to the Marple Newtown F.T.A. Many of its alumni have become teachers, and the club, currently under the supervision of Mr. Sanelli, hopes to keep up the good work.

Planning the next meeting of the F.T.A. are; Row 1: J. Trunk (V.-pres.), F. Chisena (Treas.), D. Gugliotta (Pres.). Row 2: B. Tomassone (Hist.), C. Martino (Rec .sec.), H. Brown (Parl.), S. Herbster (Corr. sec.), S. Kalick (Sgt. arms).

The American Field Service under the supervision of Mr. Robinson and president Robert Bogotin cultivates an atmosphere of world understanding. By selling books in their book store, chocolate mints and cards at Christmas, the A.F.S. raises funds to support their foreign exchange program. This year A.F.S.'s foreign exchange pupil is Rebecca Cooper who went to Germany.

The land of Ovaltine and chalets presents M-N with this year's foreign exchange student, Rosemarie Ott. A native of Switzerland, Rosemarie, is an eager athlete and student. A thoughtful and exciting ambassador, Rosemarie will certainly leave fond memories of her visit with Marple Newtown.

A Talent

Pleides

Pleides was first chartered at Paxon Hollow High School. Since then its second chapter was opened at the Senior High. This year the Drama Club is sponsored by Mr. Dye and Mr. Enck. The members of the club have a sincere interest in drama and display it by helping in all facets of stage production, and attending outside theatrical performances together. The group is hoping for a dramatic production of their own.

As the first act begins, Barbara Sharp pleads for mercy.

The officers of the Drama Club are: C. Walsh, (Treas.), R. Smith, (Sec.), J. Jewell, (Pres.), Missing is J. Gregory, (V.-pres.).

For Expression

The officers of the Art Club are: B. Sharf (Parl.), J. Morton (V. Pres.), S. Fleming (Sgt. arms), E. Stone (Pres.), H. Brown (Treas.), R. Kristinich (Sec.).

The members of the Art Club plan a display.

Art Club

The colorful posters and exhibits displayed throughout the Senior High are products of the Art Club. Under the direction of Mrs. Morton, the Art Club has become a very diversified activity. Exhibits are created to inform and to please. Posters are designed to inform the student body of coming social and athletic events in school. Also, decorations are made for special seasons or events during the course of the year. Special projects for club members include an annual trip to the Philadelphia Museum of Art and lectures given by art experts.

The art club is comprised of students who appreciate art and have an interest in creativity. The club members perform a service to the school, and at the same time enjoy themselvs.

Debate Club

Marple-Newtown's oral Tigers this year presented a barrage of organized and effective cases during their successful season. The resolution (That social security should be extended to include complete medical coverage) was timely and controversial, encouraging many original propositions.

Under the watchful and guiding eyes of our coach, Mrs. Sunquist, and the Captains of the team, Herb Ochitill and Jay Lucas, the club molded itself into an effective body, that made its presence known during its premier season in the Pennsylvania State Debate League and the Tri-State Forensic Speech Festival at Temple University.

Check! Chess club members argue over the strategy behind their plays. They are; Seated: H. Roberts, K. Leidar, E. Searfoss. Standing: G. DiCicco, F. Morrison, B. Thompson, W. Schaible, M. Liebner, D. Rushmore.

Chess Club

"Checkmate" is a new sound in Marple-Newtown. One of the most recent clubs formed, the chess club has caught the enthusiasm of many M-N students. Under the leadership of Dr. Jay Gruener, the chess club meets once a week for memebrs to play chess among themselves. Tournaments are continually staged between the members and meets with other schools are in the making. A good time with an intellectual challenge is offered to students in the chess club.

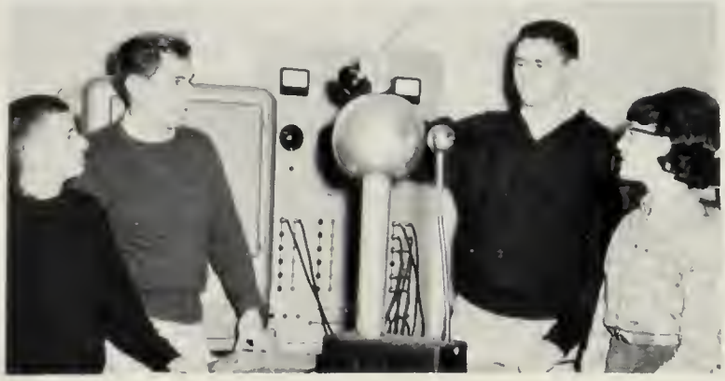

And Calculating

Science Club

This year, the first during which the Science Club was affiliated to the National Science Club Association, was a particularly eventful and fruitful one. Under the President, Barry Make, and the advisor, Mr. Paul Billet, a policy was formulated to present a dual program to members. First, guest lecturers spoke, such as the General Electric Terranauts, who spent thirty lonely days in a simulated space capsule. Secondly, to promote individual work, each member was required to develop an original project, one on which he could give a summary talk at the meetings. This led to many important discussions, both educational and enjoyable.

Math Club

Computers are no longer those formidable objects which can only be operated by a mathematical genius. The members of the Math Club have mastered this skill and have had tremendous amount of enjoyment working with the digetral computer, Minivac 610.

The Math Club is a local chapter of Mu Alpha Theta, the national organization of mathematics clubs. Membership is open to students who are interested in mathematics and have maintained a B average throughout the two years of college preparatory mathematics. Meetings are held twice a month under the supervision of Mr. Wiener. The Math Club features guest speakers and members of the club who give reports on various topics in the field of mathematics. The Math Club cultivates future mathematicians who are bent on calculating the future.

Mr. Wiener, M. Fischer (Parl.), J. Oselinsky (Treas.), L. Jacobs (V.-pres.), B. Mistrik (Sec.), E. Sanborn (Pres.) are the math club officers.

The library aids of Marple-Newtown have been assisting our librarians since 1955. They work in a library which has grown from nine hundred to ten thousand volumes during Marple-Newtown's existence. The library aids are trained and work under the supervision of Mrs. Murphy. A service group, they give their spare time to assisting students and teachers in the library. Their duties include checking books, organizing shelves, and attending to the student passes. The library aids help to provide a pleasant and efficient Marple-Newtown library.

Rosemarie Gezzer and Beth Hochstein check out books for students.

Keeping the library shelves in good order is an important duty.

Their Time

Behind every successful stage presentation at Marple-Newtown Senior High is a group of hard working boys, the stage crew. They work diligently under the supervision of Mr. Enck, to provide the school with the best in sets, lighting, and sound. When they are not preparing the stage for plays, assemblies, or concerts, they are building permanent equipment such as step units to be used in our productions.

Another industrious service organization is the Audio Visual Aids club. It is sponsored by Mr. Sanelli and consists of ten members. These boys relinquish their own free time to repair and operate the school's projector. They also maintain an up to date catalogue of films available for school use.

Stage crew treasurer, Bill Rigby, and manager, Bob Link, set the lights for an assembly.

Working on the set for the senior play are stage crew members T. Lee, K. Anderson, R. Skrammo, W. Rigby, R. Link, I. Sanbourn, D. Jeitsck, J. Huber, and S. Valdick. Missing from the picture is D. Owens.

CHORUS

The history of Marple-Newtown's chorus can be traced to 1936. The first production presented was a one night operetta. The response was so encouraging that the operettas were soon playing two nights. The groups then decided to enlarge their programs and broaden their musical offerings.

Today, the chorus is a busy, hard-working organization. Rehearsals are held from eight to eight every morning under the direction of Mr. Oberholtzer. The chorus trains voices and offers many opportunities in the musical field. Three members are presently participating in the South Eastern District Chorus. This choral group provides M-N with many programs of cultural and popular music.

Orchestra

The Marple-Newtown Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of James S. Bustard, is composed of accomplished musicians from the secondary schools of the Marple-Newtown School District. The hardworking organization rehearses every morning at the Junior High School.

The orchestra offers selections in all fields of music, including contemporary, classical and popular music. They have played in many of the school assemblies and at outside functions and have always presented excellent programs.

Several of the orchestra's members, many of whom are planning careers in music, have been chosen to represent Marple-Newtown in the Southeastern District and Regional Orchestras.

The Orchestra is a fairly new organization in the school. In just a few years, the group has made such progress that it is a credit to the school. Throughout the year the Orchestra has presented concerts at both the Senior High and Paxon Hollow High School.

P. Cronmiller, C. Martino, a string duet, are instructed by Mr. Buster.

The string quartet practices for a concert: C. McCrary, B. Thompson, B. McLean, and D. Barnett.

Marple-Newtown's marching band, appears in parades, drills and football games as the orange and black marching musicians. The members of the band devote much time and energy in preparing the pre-game & halftime shows for all of M-N's football enthusiasts. Practice begins each weekday morning at 8:00, and the band is often seen practicing its drills on the parking lots in back of the school. Under the able direction of Mr. Schultz and band co-captains, Tom Brainerd and Harry Brown, the marching band has this year helped to boost M-N's spirit.

As winter sets in and football season bows out, the band begins its concert season. Throughout the remainder of the year members work to prepare concerts of classical and popular melodies for interested audiences at student assemblies and evening concerts. Also, this winter the band has been working to build spirit at basketball games. Volunteer members of the band appear at home basketball games providing an added touch of enthusiasm to the contest.

Raising funds is a necessity if our band is to retain its uniforms and instruments. All band members participate in fund raising activities. The annual Tag Day in the fall, the mid-winter bowling party, and a year-end concert are the principal fundraising activities. Finally, at the close of concert season there is a dinner and party for the members of Marple-Newtown's versatile band.

The Marple-Newtown Senior High School band stand at attention in their M-N formation.

Cathy Burns, Barbara Neuhoff, and Lelia Mathias captain their squads and organize pep rallies.

One of the most rallying and enthusiastic forces boosting school spirit at M-N is the cheerleaders. These girls worked all year in an effort to provide new songs and cheers at sports events.

The duties and uniforms of the cheerleaders have changed considerably since the founding of the cheerleaders in 1938. The first official uniform consisted of a jacket worn over school skirts. In 1939 the first complete uniforms were given to the girls. The present cheerleader uniforms consist of three sweaters, a vest, a black skirt and a white whaler. For the first time, this year the cheerleaders undertook the production and planning of the football programs.

Usually, the group practiced once or twice a week to plan pep rallies and to perfect new cheers.

Us Over

Half-time entertainment is the regular duty of the majorettes and colorguard. Gun drills and twirling routines were prepared and were coordinated with the band formations. This year, the majorettes were organized in a different manner than previously. There were two groups of majorettes: three senior girls comprised the feature twirlers who presented intricate routines, and six junior and sophomore girls comprised the regular line under the leadership of the drum majorette.

The colorguard and feature twirlers practiced in the mornings, and the majorettes and banner girls practiced after school. In addition to performing at halftime, the majorettes, banner girls, and colorguard marched in community parades throughout the year.

NATIONAL

Truly the life hood of any educational institution are those organizations which provide student leadership and those activities which provide a wholesome school atmosphere.
Led by a devoted and capable student council, the activities program contributed greatly to the school life of the student. Our school publications help to disseminate the views of the student body as well as to report and keep a record of a particular year. The class plays provide an outlet for those students who wish to give expression to the written words of some of the great minds in the history of the world. The proms and dances sample our social etiquette while the Honor Society and Scott's Hi Q take samples of our mental abilities. The 4:15 and the 6:15 activities buses attest to the extent of our activities program and to the true spirit of our school.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The right and privilege to self-government is one of the basic tenets of Democracy. To sit in a history class and to read about the principles of self-government is not sufficient to really learn and understand the functions of this particular form of government. Over the past few years, the students of Marple-Newtown have put into practice their concept of self-government. The members of the Student Council feel, and rightfully so, that the Council and the faculty can, by joint effort, establish a system of school government that will be effective. However, their strength lies in the support of the student body.

On the business side of the ledger, the Council has many responsibilities. It supervices the school store, assists at assemblies, and sponsors a charity drive for the United Fund. Incidentally, Soon a new function will be turned over to the Council: supervision of the activities point system. On the lighter side of the agenda for the year, the Council sponsors several dances and points toward making its yearly talent show a success. Consequently, it appears as if the Council has accepted not only the right, but also the priviledge of directing and guiding the student body.

For the Students and By the Students

Student Council members attend a regular meeting directed by John Saladino.

Night In

This year's Talent Show was centered around the theme of Night in Court. On the evening of March 6 at 8:00 P.M., M.-N.'s top show-men took the stage. Under the direction of students Etta Dubin and Paula Weinstein and faculty advisor Mr. Enck, the show was the usual financial and artistic success.

The grand prize was awarded to junior Barbara Thornber for her classical piano performance. The novelty award went to a group of junior girls who called their act Crazy Legs. Lelia Mathias and Barbara Spector shared the honors for dance routines. In the music solo category Al Squilla was awarded the prize for his piano renditions of a few old standards. In the group competition the Triumphs, a rock and roll combo, won the prize for their versions of a few of the newer numbers of the day. In the vocal category John Saladino and Art Haney won with their folk singing numbers.

This year's show will be remembered not only for the winners, but for everyone who contributed to create a successful performance.

Co-directors, Etta Dubin and Paula Weinstein, review the script for Night in Court with its author, Alan Strand.

Judge Strand questions the character of a jury member during dress rehearsal.

Tri-Hi-Y

Tri-Hi-Y, the sister club to Hi-Y is constantly on the go. The club's ideals are service to others and upholding Christian ideals, and the girls strive to achieve them. The club is known for its delicious bake sales and annual mint sale, which raise money for worthy causes. Tri-Hi-Y supports a Korean orphan girl and at Christmas a special box of gifts and toys is sent to "their girl." The club's major activity, the Mother and Daughter banquet, is held in the spring. This service organization, under the direction of Mrs. Nestor, offers aid to community and school activities.

Hi-Y

The Hi-Y is a young man's Christian service organization which is better known in M-N as the unofficial pep club. Members are pledged "To create, maintain, and extend, throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character." The thirty-eight members work in close co-operation with the cheerleaders to form a large part of the cheering section. The group is one of the important mint sales groups in Pennsylvania. The Hi-Y sponsors a dance in the latter part of the year.

Interact

To develop international understanding is the theme of Interact, a new organization, formed in 1963. Interact is primarily a service organization for both school and community. Members assisted the Women's Club, helped to move books for the Marple Library, assist National Honor Society in the tutoring program, usher at the school plays, and park cars for special events. The members plan to raise funds to support a foster child.

Members of this year's Hi-Y club are; Row 1: W. Morgan (Pres.). Row 2: C. Snyder (Treas.), H. Owens (V.-pres.). Row 3: F. Down, F. Bove (Rec. sec.), R. Shelley (Sgt. arms), R. Cooper (Corr. sec.). Marple-Newtown's Scott's Hi-Q team completed a successful season in 1964, taking one first and two second places in the three meets. In each meet three represntatives of three high schools competed on a quiz program designed to test the students' general scholastic knowledge. Contestants were asked questions on current events, science, history, literature, vocabulary, music, and mathematics. Each contest is sponsored by the Scott Paper Company and is broadcast over a local radio station.

The varsity scholars of Marple-Newtown were coached by chemistry teacher, John Metka. He accompanied the team to meets at Ridley Township, Media, and the Marple-Newtown auditoriums. To prepare for the contests, Hi-Q team members and Mr. Metka listened to tape recordings of the weekly broadcasts of contests as well as discuss various topics which would aid them.

One of the most distinguished and helpful organizations in school is the Marple-Newtown Chapter of the National Honor Society. Organized in 1943, this club includes high school students who have excelled in character, scholarship, service, and leadership. A student is eligible for election during his junior or senior year if he has a scholarship B average. If he meets this scholastic requirement, he then is discussed by his teachers to see if he meets their requirements of character, service, and leadership. A candidate must have attended Marple-Newtown High School for at least one full academic year before election. The maximum membership in the Society is thirty members, twenty seniors and ten juniors. The induction of students into the Society takes place during a spring term assembly.

The officers of the National Honor Society of the 1963-64 school year are the following: Tom Brainerd (Pres.), Mary Atkinson (V.-pres.), Sandra Johnson (Sec.), Harry Owens (Treas.), John Saladino (Parl.), Art Haney (Sgt.-arms). Under the direction of Mrs. Therese Levin, the Honor Society has raised funds through bake sales, has taken care of candy selling at all home basketball games, and has taken up the task of tutoring students experiencing trouble in various subjects.

Mar-News

The Mar-News was first organized in 1933 as the Tattler, under the supervision of Mr. Harvey. The Tattler was issued three times a year following closely the holiday seasons. Many of today's Mar-News features were started in the Tattler; for instance "Can You Imagine?" an article which students in positions contrary to their known selves. In 1935, the Tattler changed its name to the present Mar-News. and was first formally printed in 1937.

This year the staff has been re-organized by Co-editors Barbara Kidder and Carole Walck, with the aid of Mar-News advisor, Mr. Ralph Wickstrom. The news staff, whose editor is Cheryl Clark, has the job of keeping M-N students informed about school happenings. The features staff, with Pam Weatherbee as editor, provides the imagination of the Mar-News. The production staff types, proofreads, and plans the general arrangements of the paper. The Mar-News strives to inform and entertain the M-N students.

Selecting and editing for the coming editions are the jobs of: H. Klein, R. Grimaldi, B. Ripple, E. Kernish, C. Clark, A. Strand, J. Wallin, W. Anderson, W. Schiable.

Octagon

The Octagon is Marple-Newtown's literary magazine. The publication's main purpose is to provide a medium for creative expression within the school. It is the newest of the publications, for the first issue came out in the spring of 1961.

Material for the publication is gleaned from all sources; English themes are the main sources, but any literary work is graciously accepted. The staff, headed by Editor Renee Grimaldi, then reviews and edites the selections. The art staff, under Judi Repp, provides illustrations for the selections. Staff typists then copy the material and the Octagon is sent out to be printed. The magazine was originally printed at Paxon Hollow but this year an outside printer was employed.

R. Grimaldi (Editor), J. Repp (Art Editor), and Mrs. Stevenson discuss distribution of the Octagon.

is Universal

The Foreign Newspaper has now been in existence for two years. Written in Spanish, French, and German, the newspaper contains news articles, features, and original compositions. Under the direction of Editor Cheryl McCrary and advisors Mr. Crystle and Mr. Stomel, the members meet once a week to write and proof-read the articles. The newspaper was published twice this year and the staff hopes to complete several issues next year. The publishing of the foreign newspaper developes the student's language ability and creates an interest in foreign languages.

Memories '64 is the thirtieth publication of a yearbook at Marple-Newtown. The first annual was published in 1934 and was a twenty-four page paperback book.

The success of Memories '64 can largely be attributed to the persistence of Co-editors Gloria Cardinal and Gee Holm. These two girls, aided by the suggestions of faculty advisor, Mr. William C. Caprietti, performed the organizing tasks which were absolutely essential to the meeting of deadlines.

The first decisions confronting the staff were the selections of the theme and cover. Several of the editors then proceeded to schedule senior portrait pictures, which were taken during the summer. In September the compiling of tintypes and lay-outs of the senior section was undertaken. Pictures, copy, and lay-outs for the remainder of the book were compiled in the spring. Room 106 was the scene of all yearbook action.

For those who judge a book by its cover, C. Leppert, N. Lewis, F. Bove, and J. Trunk examine some binding selections.

Mr. Capriotti advices co-editors Gee Holm and Gloria Cardinal on some of their yearbook problems.

The sports program at M-N is a comprehensive program with teams in all major and minor sports. The Class of 1964 contributed greatly to the fielding of good athletic teams to represent the student body.

One of the greatest hazards in writing about sports is to lapse into the standard cliches about spirit, wins, losses building character, injuries and time running out. The best that we can do is to shine up an old cliche. Consequently, if we were to put aside the stated cliches and look at the heart of the matter,, we realize that winning and losing are relative and have little real meaning in the life of any athletic team. If, after the last whistle blows, the last strike called, the last stroke swum, a team can say it played to the best of its ability, the final outcome in a win or loss column is irrelevant. The spirit of competition and the wholesome love of a team effort always score in the win column.

Line-Up

This year's rendition of the M-N Tigers again fooled the experts by remaining in the battle for the Suburban I crown right until the end. Many people thought the Tigers were too small and too inexperienced but they overcame these handicaps to win six of the nine games on their schedule. The Orange and Black finished in third place behind champion Lower Merion and Upper Darby.

Coach Lou Bonder and his assistants Paul Dobransky, John Rhoads, and Dave Williams did their usual great job in molding an exciting team noted for their desire and hustle.

Several Tigers were named to the All-Section I team. Junior quarterback George Allen and guard Gary Burruss were selected to the first team. Guard Jack Melusky was named to the second team. Backs Rich Green and Bob Pacienza and linemen Larry Colbert and Bob Kenig received honorable mention.

Coach Bonder and Co-captains Gary Burruss and John Saladino talk over strategy of coming season. John's arm was broken in the Pennecrest game and he was unable to play the rest of the season.

The Tigers earned a successful 6-3 record and remained in contention for the title until a heartbreaking 13-12 loss to Lower Merion. The season was marred by injuries, notably to Co-captain and fullback John Saladino, who missed all but the season opener. The defense was probably tops in the section and the Tigers boast three shutouts in league play. The coaches and players did themselves proud in following up two straight championships with another fine season. With many top-notch ball players returning next year, M-N can be expected to be a title contender again.

Running and Winning

Coach Earl Shores and Captain Bill Morgan led the Marple-Newtown cross-coutry team to another successful season. Since the initiation of cross-country at M-N, the Harriers have never had a losing season. This year's squad, though inexperienced, completed its schedule with a 7-4 record.

Individually, Junior Doug MacCready and Captain Bill Morgan battled each other for the squad's top spot throughout the season. These two leaders and the rest of the hard-working team made the season the success it was. Culminating their season was a fifth place finish in the district meet.

Looking to the future, seven of the top eight runners from this year's team will be back next year to improve their times. It is safe to say that coach Earl Shores, the winningest coach at M-N, has a great chance to maintain the success of this sport at M-N. We at M-N should all be proud of our outstanding team.

SOCCER

This year the booters of Marple-Newtown, under the leadership of freshman coach Allan K. Jones, looked forward to a good season in a tough Suburban B League. Unfortunately, due to a miriad of injuries and lack of experience, the team was unable to cope with the powerhouse teams of the established league.

The watchword of the season was improvement, and Coach Jones felt that the team had attained this goal. The Tigers climaxed the league competition scoring twice against State Champion Upper Darby. At the end of the season, fullback Chuck Snyder was named to the All-League Team.

With six starters returning next year, Coach Jones feels that the maturity of the team will pay off in a winning season.

1964 proved to be a successful season for the wrestling team of Marple-Newtown. The grapplers led by Mr. Jones and Mr. Williams, ended the season with respectable (4-3) record.

Further triumphs were gained at the Landsdowne-Aldan Tournament where Steve Weiss (95 lbs.), Don Smith (120 lbs.), Dave Pinker (138 lbs.), and Art Haney (180 lbs.) took high honors. Del Wynn, and Tom Ford, a heavyweight, each took second place.

In its fourth year of competition, the team faired well in the Sectional Championships. Steve Weiss took a first place and Seniors Wynn and Smith took seconds. The mat-men are looking forward to another successful season next year.

Coach Bill Watson's M-N basketball varsity really did themselves proud in '63-'64. They compiled a 12-8 record, the best at M-N in over five years, and restored much of the lost basketball spirit at the school.

Seniors Ron Cooper, Carl Heinsen, John Rode, Jim Colligan and Henry Wolfman, plus big Junior Jim Dulaney, formed the hub of the squad. Their 8-6 league mark was good for fourth place in rugged Suburban I.

The Tigers upset the like of Radnor, Chester, and Upper Darby, and gained other thrilling wins over Abington, Cheltenham, and Lower Merion. This ballclub had great hustle, sporting one of the sturdiest defenses in the league, and they very rarely were outplayed.

Splashing

Although the record does not show it, the boy's swimming team has performed under handicapped circumstances in a strong league. Without the benefit of a school pool, practices have been limited to twice a week in the nearby Suburban Pool.

Coach Terence Shearn and captains Fred Down and Bob Schell supplied the leadership as the team entered its third year of competition. The Tigers swam hard enough to achieve a (6-3) mark, good for third place in the league and a third consecutive winning system.

The team's performers demonstrated their ability at the Class "A" District Meet. The team won a total of seven medals: Fred Down, Barry Kerr, and Bill Dorney won two, and Bob Schell won one.

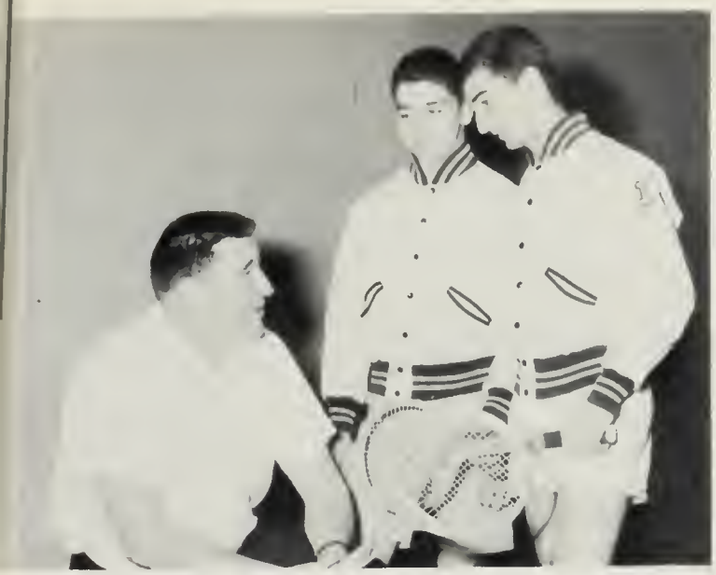

With a great number of swimmers returning for next year, the future looks promising for Mr. Shearn and the team.

And Smashing

1964 was the fifth year of competition for the M-N tennis team. Coach William Watson led the team against local Suburban II rivals.

In past years the team was limited to two or three practices per week since the three high courts had to be shared with the girl's team. However, this year three brand new courts were completed at Paxon Hollow and the boys could practice every day. With the completion of the new facilities at Paxon Hollow, the younger players should gain the experience needed to produce winning teams in the future.

The season was concluded with the District Championship at Norristown High School.

Coach Shores discusses pre-meet plans with two team members.

Track practice sessions began in March, and the team members trained rigorously for the rugged schedule against Suburban I rivals.

There were many individual stars including Captain Howard Jasper who threw the discus, Dan Mills, a sophomore, and John Moffit who ran the sprints, and George Allen who competed in the javelin and pole vault events.

A surprise to all were the M-N victories in the sprinting events. This has been a weak spot in recent years, but 1964 proved to be different.

The team was comprised of a large percentage of underclassmen which holds for promise for future teams.

M-N in the past has always been a baseball power. In 1963 they finished in the first division, just losing the title in the final weeks of the season, despite the fact that it was their first year in a power-packed Suburban I. However, graduation took eight of the nine starters, and in baseball lingo, 1964 was a re-building year. Coach Dave Williams replaced Athletic Director Lou Bonder as head pilot of the club.

The Tigers line-up was ladin with underclassmen. This year's captain was junior Jack Meluskey, the only returning letterman. Some important seniors were first baseman Jim Rowland, second baseman Chuck Peoples, outfielders Bob Jamew and Richie Green, plus catcher Harry Kline. Williams' future hopefuls include outfielders Bob Schultz, Rusty Sunnen, and Bill Lourene, and infielders Jack Meluskey, Steve Stingle, Dan Rudloff. The top pitchers were juniors Mike Marrett and Gordon Walker, and sophomore Jerry Cohen.

Tigerettes Dribble and Drive

Under the watchful eye of coaches, Miss Mildred Wilson and Mrs. Vera Egnar, our Tigerettes had a 3-3-2 record this season. The junior varsity showed a promise for next season with a 4-4-0 record. Co-captains for this year were Peg Smith, who was high scorer, and Judy Ostein. With a hardworking defense and charging offense, the girls fought hard and all games were close in score.

The mermaids of the Marple-Newtown girls' swim team completed the 1963-64 season with a large accumulation of victories. Although the girls lost a close race with Lower Marion for the District P.I.A.A. championship, the varsity record was eight wins and one loss, bowing again to a strong Upper Marion team. The junior varsity finished the season undefeated. The boys' and girls' teams shared Suburban Swim Club for practices twice a week. Because of the limited facilities, coach Mrs. Judy Haber held several additional practices early Saturday mornings. The girls are to be commended on their admirable showing against schools which have their own pools and hold practices daily. Co-captains Barbara Barlett and Kathy Hutton comprised a winning duo for the Marple-Newtown mermaids. Plans for the new high school include a swimming pool, and a promising future seems to be in store for this three-year-old sport at Marple-Newtown.

The season opened with a home game against Springfield on April 21, followed by six section matches, one non-league match, and a scrimmage. The final match was followed by the district meet held at Norristown on the 13th and 14th of May and the State matches on May 22 and 23 at Penn State University.

Mrs. Becker, Miss Groff, and Co-Captains Mary Sailer and Jane Baker review the season's schedule.

The '64 Lacrosse team opened its season early this spring and played continuously through May. All the classes were represented this year; the majority of the payers coming from the Junior and Senior classes. Miss Judith Groff was named head coach this year with Mrs. Becker as her able assistant. The coaching staff helped to spark the team's desire to win. Leading the team were the Co-Captains Mary Sailor and Mary Jane Baker. Originating among the North American Indians, Lacrosse is a game which requires great endurance. The team was required to run many laps to acquire this needed endurance. Adverse weather conditions, such as the biting winds of March and the blistering days of May, also helped to condition the girls for this challenging game. Beginning with Upper Darby the team played a tight schedule ending with Ridley Township.

OFFICE

The class of 1965 now occupies the proverbial "Never-Never Land." Once at the top at Paxon Hollow High School, they occupy last place in the Senior High. Nevertheless, a heavy responsibility is incumbent upon them. They must take up the traditions that will be passed on to them by the Class of 1964. The responsibility the present Junior class must accept lies in a sacred trust: To learn as much as possible about themselves and mankind. If the past does tell us of the future, then there is no doubt that the class of 1965 will accept and broaden its heritage.

Junior Leaders

John Reilly calls a meeting of the Junior Executive Council to order with the assistance of other officers: S. Dix, E. Searfoss, A. Ellis, R. Kennedy, and B. Smith.

The class of 1965 came from Paxon Hollow led by very able officers: John Reilly, Pres.; Sue Dix, V.-pres.; Barbara Smith, Sec.; Anne Ellis, Parl.; and Eugene Searfoss, Sgt-at-arms.

The Juniors enthusiastically began the year by raising class money with the annual magazine drive. The Juniors waited patiently for their rings, and were elated when they finally arrived. In a flurry of activity, the class play, trip and prom were enjoyed in the second semester. Highlights of the trip to New York included Radio City Music Hall, the United Nations Building and tour of Manhattan. Their play, "Barretts of Wimpole Street", was a big success for the class. But the fun did not end for the Juniors, for they have one more year in M-N as the "old and wise" Seniors of next year.

At Work

The Class of 1965 has been noted for its enthusiasm and spirit. However, such spirit needs rallying and leaders; such zealous leaders comprise the Junior Executive Council.

Under the guiding hand of Mrs. Levin, and President John Reilly, the key to the class' success has been cooperation. The Council has been presiding over the annual activities of the magazine drive, the Junior Prom and the class trip to New York City. All members have done much in organizing, leading and advising their class.

High school - only three years out of a lifetime, yet they are crammed so full of experiences and decisions that shape our future years. It seems ony a short time ago that we took our senior portraits and signed our diploma slips. We can still hear the echoes of our first pep rally. The prom and the class trip both capped an intriguing year in which we learned much about subject matter. However, if our Senior year and our school life are to be considered successful, we must also measure how well we understand ourselves and those about us. From the past we learn the future. Consequently, just as three years ago we stepped out onto the paths of our high school life. we now step out on the paths of our adult life. Just as three years ago we had the choice of two paths to travel during our high school life (one vital and dedicated; the other, passive and mediocre), we now have the same choice. Because of our past experiences and decorum, some of us will maintain our present course and succeed; others, must re-evaluate their present course and adjust that course so that they can reach fulfillment as a human being.

Friday evening, April 5, 1963 witnessed the Marple-Newtown premier of the Junior Play, Gaslight. The drama, based on the play Angel Street by Gardner Davies involved the rather odd happenings in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Manningham, a London couple of the 1880's. Mr. Manningham, desiring a closer relationship with the maid, Nancy, devised an ingenious plot for driving his wife, the obstacle in his affair, insane. Curious and unexplainable events start happening in Mrs. Mannigham's presece: lights blink on and off and tables move. The result of this diabolical plot was almost realized when the secret, thanks to the efforts of Inspector Rough, was discovered, and the plan was spoiled.

River

The golden strains of Moon River, played by the Guy Brandolini orchestra, set the stage for one of the Class of 64's most memorable evenings. It was May 25, 1963, the night of the Junior Prom. The Marple-Newtown Senior High School gymnasium was transformed from an ordinary gym into a festive scene, decorated with hanging flowers, white and blue streamers, and a "moon river" running through a garden. Behind the streamers were tables with blue and white candles and a centerpiece made of chrysanthemums. The prom was followed by an a la carte breakfast, lasting until 1 A.M. Although the night has passed, it will be one of our most lasting memories.

"The best high school play I've ever seen." "I was so surprised to see what our students could do." These are some of the remarks echoed by the audience which viewed our senior class play, Antigone. This was Marple-Newtown's first attempt at classical drama, and, like all firsts, it was originally greeted with aprehension and questioning. However, the ovation following both curtain calls showed that all doubts had been erased.

Athough no violence is witnessed on stage, the story of Antigone is a tragic and turbulent one. It is the story of a proud girl who is determined to bury her brother despite the laws of state. Her Uncle Creon, the King, decreed that Polynices should be left to rot, and held adamantly to that declaration. This struggle is further complicated by Haemon, Creon's son and Antigone's lover. Haemon is caught up in the midst of the controversy and pulled to each side. In the end his love for Antigone triumphs, and he joins her in a dramatic death.

The unity of the play lies in the character of the chorus. He communicates with the actors and the audience to convey the ideas and background of the play which are not obvious. Although the scenery consisted mostly of levels, the effect was dramatic. Mr. Enck, the director and producer worked with the stage crew to plan a lighting scheme which would accent the characters and the mood. He was assisted in the technical aspects of production by student director, Dave Burdick, and his assistant, Evelyn Smith. The work of Mr. Enck, the student directors, the committees, and the cast combined to make Antigone a project that the class of '64 can look back to with pride.

"Well, here we are. These people that you see here are about to act out for you the story of Antigone."

The chorus listens as the messenger relates the gory details of Antigone's death.

"Take your dirty hands off me!"

Ismene enters to find the nurse comforting Antigone.

Carousel

Seniors and their dates forget their formal attire and engage in the Bunny Hop.

On April 4, 1964, the Senior Class held its Senior Ball at the George Washington Country Club. Formally attired seniors danced to the strains of music presented by Al Raymond and his orchestra. The theme of the prom was "Carousel", and the banquet room was highlighted by a large carousel covered with multicolored paper streamers. Each table was graced with shimmering candles and a fragile centerpiece. The Bunny Hop and the Mexican Hat Dance added variety to the dance. The evening reached a climax as Rosmarie Ott was crowned Queen by Cynthia Copley, the Junior Prom Queen.

At the conclusion of the prom, a turkey breakfast with all the trimmings was served. Seniors continued to dance to music supplied by a jukebox and then hurried away to post-prom parties.

Junior Prom Queen Cynthia Copley crowns Rosmarie Ott Queen of the Senior Ball.

The breakfast, a turkey dinner, was served from 1:00 to 3:00 in the morning.

The camera catches the eye of hungry Seniors waiting for breakfast.

The court and their escorts attend the Queen: L. Bruno, S. Stanard, J. Rubright, L. Hartin, E. Baer, R. Ott, C. Copley, S. Street, G. Dorney, V. Tabb, F. Carbone, B. Patten, T. Castagna.

Seniors dance to the music of Al Raymond and his Orchestra.

Senior Executives

Leading the class of '64 in its activities are: W. Nakajima, B. Nealis, M. Atkinson, R. Grimaldi, E. Baer, and T. Frakes.

Our Senior year was full of memorable events and busy activities, To guide these many events and activities the Class of 1964 had as its officers: Ed Baer, Pres.; Renee Grimaldi, V.-pres.; Barbara Nealis, Sec.; and Mary Atkinson, Treas. These able and hard-working Seniors did a great deal to organize the Senior plans and to boost class spirit.

The senior class is proud to recognize among its members five National Merit Scholarship Finalist and teams of championship quality in many sports.

The Seniors' duties began early in 1963, when senior portraits were taken. After what seemed to be an endless wait, the proofs arrived and the first of many decisions had to be made. After the class play "Antigone" and the Christmas vacation, the social scene slowed down but not for long.

Seniors set the pace for the whole school. Their anxiety over college acceptance and enthusiasm over their coming graduation seemed to be felt by the entire student body.

The prom and class trip heralded the end of the main class events and the beginning of the end of the high school career. In May, the Seniors visited the nation's capital in Washington D.C. in the same way their many predecessors did.

With graduation in June, the high school career came to a close. Many complaints and lamentations were raised throughout the year, but all eyes were a little misty the night of graduation. A way of life ended, but a new one unfolded.

Formulate Policies

To aid in legislative procedures of the Senior Class, and to make plans and form committees for the class play, trip and prom are the main duties of the Senior Class Executive Council. Headed by Ed Baer, President, the council recruits members from the class to form committees that run class functions.

For the class play, this year's council handled the sale of tickets, printed programs, and provided ushers. These groups were all advised by faculty members.

Prom decisions were made by committees formed by the council to choose the place and band, they key and prepare the ballots for the selection of the theme.

The lay-away plan enables seniors to spread out senior year costs for the cass trip. The council collects these installments.

Members of executive council work out financial problems of class.

Nowhere is the spirit of the American competitive system evident than in the advertising paper of our newspapers and magazines.
Although the economic life of Memories 1964 benefits from the support of its advertisers, the more important point is that Memories 1964 contribute to the economic chain and the community.
Too often we are inclined to take for granted the services that the various industries and businesses provide for a community's citizens. These services would be seriously curtailed if it were not for the patronage and support of a locale's citizenry. This support cannot and must not rest solely on a financial level but also on a neighborly level. Only by working hand in hand can the buyer and the seller contribute to the economic well-being of community, state and nation.

CONGRATULATIONS

To all those whose names are recorded in the 1964 Class Book

These are only a few of other printed pages

names of persons are entered

EARL A HARRIS
Realtor

1. Church membership
2. Golf Clubs
3. Civic Clubs
4. Hall of Fame
5. American Legion
6. even in "Who's Who"

However, there is ONLY ONE place where it really counts to have your name inscribed, and that is in

"THE BOOK OF LIFE"

Every other book where names are recorded will some day pass away, be forgotten, and remembered no more. But if your name will be in the "Book Of Life" it will be there forever.

"AND WHOSOEVER WAS NOT FOUND WRITTEN IN THE "BOOK OF LIFE" WAS CAST INTO THE LAKE OF FIRE."
(Revelation 20:15)

BELIEVE: That Jesus Christ was the Son of God; that He died for sinners; that you are a sinner; that He rose again from the dead; that He died for YOU; and your name will be written there.
